PART 1: The Ultimate Plan | January 19th - 8-9pm EST

Course Description:

The time is now! The oral systemic link is not new to dentistry; however, communicating its significance to our patients AND providing more effective periodontal care is now more important than ever. This session will guide you through the latest research and help you create a plan to provide optimal care for patients while practicing a 'safety-first' approach.

Course Objectives:

1. Describe the role of the evidence-based oral-systemic connection in educating, motivating and caring for your patients.
2. Redefine the overall objective of periodontal therapy for the year 2021 and beyond.
3. Explain the key factors necessary to achieve the goals of successful periodontal therapy.
4. Discover how an intra-oral HVE system, not just an HVE device, is critical when performing aerosol generating procedures within periodontal therapy.

PART 2: The Perfect Execution | January 26th - 8-9pm EST

Course Description:

With a solid plan in place, the final session in this series will dive into chairside protocols. Emphasis will be given to identification of patients with elevated risk profiles, which sites to treat in the current environment, and appropriate instrumentation considerations.

Course Objectives:

1. Demonstrate a workable chairside approach for recognizing "priority patients" and determining which sites to treat.
2. Develop an evidence-based decision-making approach for selecting appropriate treatment options.
3. Discuss the 3 primary considerations around the necessary use of ultrasonic instruments.
